3 indicted in absentee vote probe

By LENNY INGRASSIA

Criminal indictments charging perjury, solicitation and unlawful observation of voting were released today against Lee County Democratic Party Chairman Jim G. Burke and two of his campaign workers, Herb Dunphy and Alice Dempsey. The three indictments, containing 29 counts, were ordered suppressed Thursday by Chief Circuit Judge James E. Bales, who immediately imposed a gag rule barring any disclosure of grand jury action to the media until 10

Burke, city commissioner of Public Property and president of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce, appeared with his lawyer, John Caluwaert, as Circuit Judge Thomas E. Hornsby read the indictment charging him with six counts of perjury and six counts of solicitation. On behalf of his client, Caluwaert entered an immediate plea of innocent to all

Dempsey, 54, 1119 W. Second St., is accused of four counts of perjury, four counts of solicitation and four counts of unlawful observation of voting in connection with absentee ballots cast in the days prior to the April 15 city election.

Dunphy, 67, 711 Peoria Ave., is charged with two counts of perjury, two counts of solicitation and one count of unlawful observation of voting.

Innocent pleas were entered by Caluwaert, also representing Dunphy, and by Willard Nelson, Morrison, representing

Mrs. Dempsey.
All three defendants were released on $5,000 personal recognizance bonds.

Aside from the defendants, their lawyers and court personnel, few people were in attendance at this morning's

The grand jury action culminates four months of investigation by lawyers with the Attorney-General's office, called into the case at the request of State's Atty. Patrick E. Ward. The charges stem from alleged improper methods used to procure absentee ballots in the city election. Burke was a candidate for re-election at the time. Complaints received by Ward from fellow candidates Arthur Tofte and Richard Arnould charged Burke with obtaining a large number of absentee ballots inappropriately.

false statement in a certificate for absentee ballots, stating they would be absent on election day, "a statement which they (defendants) did not believe to be true," the indictments read.

A charge of solicitation accompanied each perjury count, charging the defendants with "encouraging and requesting" voters to make a false statement.

Two of the voters from which Dempsey is accused of obtaining absentee ballots are Ira and Jacqueline Nehring, both Lee County deputy sheriffs. Ira Nehring is a brother to Sheriff Ray Nehring.

Other persons whose absentee votes were sought by the defendants, on which the indictments were based, are Janie Fleming, Helen Sofolo, Doris Gandy, Wayne Gandy, Kathryn Mullins, Shawn Duffy, Virgil Grace and Jerry Thomas.

According to Attorney General lawyer

Charles Levan, perjury is a Class Three felony, while solicitation and unlawful observation of voting are Class Four felonies, all punishable by prison terms.

No trail dates were set this morning by Judge Hornsby. He explained to the defendants that Judge Bales would assign the cases at a later date.

Although the defendants appeared calm in the courtroom during proceedings, their comments afterward concerning motivation behind the investigation were of political overtones involving Burke charged Ward, a Republican, with making a statement saying "I'm out to get Burke." The statement was allegedly made during a gathering of Republicans in the days prior to the April 15 election. "And this is just his way of getting me," Burke said today.

In a prepared statement issued after the indictments were read, Burke said "I am saddened-Today is a very painful and traumatic experience for all our families. For five months many voters and their families and campaign workers and their families, plus some city officials, have suffered mental anguish in connection with this investigation. For those people I am glad this investigation has ended.

"The upcoming trial will give us an opportunity to tell our story to the jury and the public. My wife, Lucy, and I are deeply grateful for our families and many friends who are standing by us during this trying time," Burke said.

An enraged Dempsey said, "I don't think I've done a thing wrong-I've done this before and there was nothing wrong with it and I'll probably do it again.

Dunphy said he was flabbergasted with the whole thing. "I've been in politics all my life and this kind of thing has never happened.'

Ward denied the charge of political overtones as the motive behind the case.

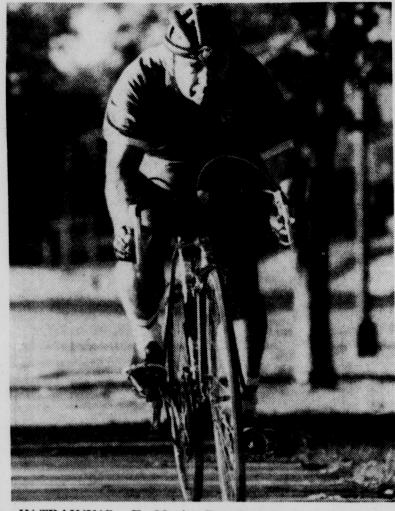

'The matter is now in the courts and it would be highly improper for any prosecutor, any defense attorney or any defendant to express any opinion or make any statement concerning these cases," Ward said today.

Attorney-General staff members began their investigation May 5. Ward said he requested their assistance and turned the entire investigation over to them to counter any politically-motivated statements which might arise.

Lane, Freed discuss Kennedy slayings

WAYNE LYON

Mark Lane and Donald Freed embraced warmly when they met Thursday afternoon in the board room of Sauk Valley College.

These two men, united in parallel causes and members of the same organization, both spend much of their time touring the country lecturing mostly to college crowds, but seldom do they get a chance to meet at the same

Their paths crossed Thursday afternoon at Sauk Valley. Freed was still on hand after completing a lecture and program on the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy Wednesday night at SVC. Lane was just arriving to lecture and show films on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy to a Thursdaynight crowd at the college

Their encounter at SVC lasted just under three hours. It gave them a chance to compare notes on recent developments and to find out the latest activities of the Citizens Commission of Inquiry (CCI).

Lane is director of the CCI and Freed is a member. The non-profit organization, based in Washington, D.C., is devoted to making the American people, the media and the Congress aware of the coverups by the CIA, FBI and other police organizations, in the assassinations of the Kennedy brothers.

Lane is probably the best-known of the two. He is an attorney, filmmaker and author of six books including "Rush to Judgment," a volume critical of the Warren Commission's report on the JFK assassination. The book topped the best-seller list in the country at the time of its publication. He is the only critic of the Warren Commission report who actually conducted an investigation into the murder of JFK. He testified before the Warren Commis-

Freed also is an author, best known for "The Killing of RFK" and "The Glass House Tapes." A teacher by profession, he was a member of the department of philosophy at California State University and a lecturer in philosophy at UCLA.

The two combined on the screenplay of a film, "Executive Action," which has been released as a book too. They are upset with the handling of that film in Hollywood. "We did a screenplay that was supposed to be fiction based on fact," Lane explained. "By the time it got through the Hollywood meat-grinder it wound up as fiction based on fiction. It was rewritten and filled with terrible errors by Hollywood rewriters."

Lane went on to say so violent was their disagreement over the script that Freed was barred from the set and the two had considered an injunction to stop the showing of the

In their quest for reopening of the investigations into both assassinations, the pair expressed pleasure with recent progress.

Freed, in fact, was leaving SVC to fly to Los Angeles for a hearing today in a court action in which he is a principal, to remove from the custody of the Los Angeles Police Department, all evidence pertinent to the assassination of Robert Kennedy.

He's hopeful that if the court allows this to be done, it will be the first step in reopening the investigation into the death of Senator

Lane reported that 68 members of Congress have now offered resolutions to reopen the investigation in the JFK assassination.

Neither Lane nor Freed are offering any evidence as to who really committed the two assassinations, but each is convinced and can offer reams of evidence that each of the slayings came about as the result of a conspiracy.

In speaking of the effort to remove the RFK evidence from the hands of the Los Angeles Police, Lane states flatly that data pertinent to that case has been tampered with, it has been forged and evidence has been de-

The gun used by Sirhan B. Sirhan, convicted in the RFK killing, was an Iver Johnson .22-caliber pistol which holds eight shots.

"If you count the three bullets which entered Senator Kennedy's body, five which hit bystanders and three bullet holes in the ceiling panels above the assassination site, you get 11 shots," Lane explains.

"Investigators would have you believe that the holes in the ceiling panels came from bullets passing through, ricocheting back down through and hitting bystanders," he charges. "The Los Angeles Police Department says it destroyed the ceiling tiles in 1969.

"The police did not even confiscate all of the guns in the room at the time of the assassination," he says. "Check with your local police chief and he'll tell you it's just common sense police work to seize all guns at the scene of a murder. The serial number of the gun taken from

Sirhan at the crime scene was H53725, Freed asserts. The bullets fired for ballistics tests for use in court were fired from a different gun, an Iver Johnson with a serial number of H18602. The test gun has allegedly been destroyed. No publicly known record reveals that any

LOS ANGELES (AP)-The exactly what he had done, but shot and injured at the Amapparent lack of adequate ballistics tests in the investigation of the 1968 assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy "raised doubts as to the substance of the evidence in the case," a special prosecutor says.

WEST BERLIN- On Sunday, Aug. 13, 1961, Communism put up the Berlin Wall. Three million East Germans had fled west.

Actually, there are two Berlin walls. And you have to see them here to believe them.

The first wall encircles this city as a whole; an electrically charged barbed-wire barricade 95 miles long. Berlin covers 360 square miles; East Berlin, alone, 153. The area is so immense that Frankfurt, Munich and Stuttgart combined could fit into it.

This hideous barricade isolates both Berlins from East Germany as a whole and our U.S. Army headquarters here tells me that 42,500 Soviet soldiers are guarding it.

Our headquarters estimates that more than 300,000 Russian troops are now stationed in East Germany and calls them the cream of the crop. Living conditions in East Germany, bad as they are, are notoriously better than in the Soviet Union, and the Red Army regards serving in East Germany as a reward post.

There are 14 fully mechanized divisions and the Soviet has turned over to East Germany 380 jets, 2,500 tanks, 8,000 antiaircraft guns, 1,000 heavy artillery pieces, 1,500 amphibious armored cars, etc. Most are drawn from Czechoslovakia's great Skoda works at Pilsen.

The East German commander has been made a Soviet citizen, with a general's rank, and he, in turn, is commanded by a four-star Soviet general at a huge headquarters at

Berlin Wall symbol of Communism

Wumsdorf, 30 miles from Potsdam, East Germany

But, hardly known to our American public and deliberately unpublicized, our country is represented at Potsdam, too. A quirk in a special 1945 military agreement allows us to maintain there a military liaison mission to the Soviet forces.

Behind the scenes, "student" goons on one occasion tore down our mission's American flag and flagpole, broke 2,000 windows and smashed all furniture. But no-nonsense Col. Paul Skowronek, the U.S. Mission commander, hauled in a new flagpole, ran up a new American flag, demanded a new Soviet troops salute and, ultimately, I am glad to say, forced the Soviet commander to pay every nickel of the West Berlin has lived under allied occupation longer than Germany lived under Hitler and the West Berliner's name for himself is "inselaner" (islander).

The second wall that bisects the city runs a solid 10 miles- mostly concrete and steel- and has enough barbed wire to circle the entire

The Reds moved out 23,000 families to make room for the wall and 50,000 East German soldiers patrol it. Another 70,000 workers are diverted to keep both walls constantly repaired.

But the bisecting wall grows like a cancer and, in fact, represent the expanded cancer of Red thought.

Starting with 130 observation towers, the wall now has 210, along with 245 new bunkers and machinegun pits and 102 special places for attack dogs that now patrol it, trailing long, instantly activated hightension wires.

A million Germans live in East Berlin. About 700,000 of West Berlin's million population have relatives among the East Berliners. The parents, sons, daughters are divided. Only on rare occasions can they attend family funerals and even their connection by telephone is frequently cut off.

The relentless heroism of those countless men and women who have tried to escape over or through the wall is as famous as it is heartbreak-

Each year the West Germans hold a ceremony at West Berlin's Peter Fechter Memorial, which I have attended, the symbol for all the victims of the hideous wall. But what is not so well known is that 23,000 East Berlin Volksarunesten policemen-called the "VOPOS" and usually dreaded— have defected to West Berlin, 2,036 since that ghastly Sunday when the Wall went up.

This symbol of Communist liberties, like the Iron Curtain as a whole, is both an electrified fence and a frame of mind. Surely the first test of any country's freedom is the freedom to leave.

The closer you get to Communism, as in Berlin, the harder it is to understand how there can be any rationalizers of it, and apologists for it, in the United States.

REFLECTIONS- There is a built-in friction between advertising salesmen and reporters. The former are prone to remind newsmen it is the proceeds from their activities which pay the journalists' salaries and reporters often retort, if it were not for their activities the product we produce would not be called a newspaper.

Thus it is uncommon for an advertising person to address a meeting of journalists.

Rare as it is, the Northern Illinois Society of Professional Journalists held a meeting last Sunday at which an advertising executive was guest speaker.

The Sunday meeting and the appearance of an advertising person are both first for the chapter, of which this writer is a member of the board of directors.

The newsmen's guest was Sidney Bernstein, Chicago, chairman of the Executive Council of Crane Communicators, who publish the Advertising Age, which has been described as "the hometown weekly for the advertising community."

Bernstein has been associated with Advertising Age since its founding in 1930.

He started off with a statement which journalists are not willing to take at face value.

The Chicagoan contended the role of advertising in newspapers in producing operating revenues has played an important part in the development of a free press in this country.

Editors would quarrel about this statement to the extent that it implies a responsible free press is only a by-product of the success of advertising. Such aspects of journalism development as attempting to fairly and objectively report the news; the continuing effort to improve writing and typography, are not spelled out in Bernstein's claim.

Such efforts to improve the newsside of a newspaper come about, first, if top management cares about quality of the total product, and secondly, when persons practicing in the field of journalism are motivated by high principles derived from the heavy responsibility bestowed upon reporters and editors because of the accepted role we play in our society.

In short, the demands the free press makes under the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution carry with them stern responsibilities which may not be taken lightly.

Back to Bernstein, the second assertion he made was "The general public doubts the integrity of adver-

Following up on this the speaker pointed out advertising is a substitute for a salesman.

He declared advertising serves the same function as a salesman does, "in a watered-down fashion." Both can make a pitch, but only the salesman can make a sale; advertising may only indirectly cause a sale to be made.

Bernstein observed salesmen can only persuade and try to convince a potential customer to purchase whatever he is selling and in this regard, "advertising can be anything a salesman can be.

The spokesman said "Success in advertising or by salesmen, rests on their ability to sell."

At this point Bernstein made a distinction between advertising and propaganda: Advertising, he asserted, tells who the sponsor is and what is being offered, while propaganda often does not reveal the source or the real purpose of the sponsor and sometimes persuades people without their being aware of the activity.

Betsy Plank, a vice president of Illinois Bell, who earlier in the day received a plaque from the Journalism Department of NIU for her work in public relations, told Bernstein public relations releases also note who the sponsor is and should be also distinguished from propaganda.

Bernstein agreed with her. He took exception to the statement, "If you build a better mousetrap, people will beat a path to your door," contending to build a better mousetrap is not enough.

The advertising executive said "Someone must say it is a better mousetrap, and why it is a better mousetrap and that message will be communicated by advertising or by a salesman."

Bernstein drew a comparison between advertising salesmen and reporters when he described the admen as "pleaders like attorneys and poets, not like reporters whose job it is to report what happens just as it occurred."

Bernstein drew applause as he concluded his remarks and a lively question and answer period fol-

One thing is sure, without advertising revenues there would be no newspapers, but just as true, without reporters free to write what they see and hear there would not be any newspapers as we know them.

Tax-supported culture grows

By DON OAKLEY

On Sept. 29, 1965, President Lyndon B. Johnson signed into law a bill establishing a National Foundation for the Arts and Humanities, thereby launching the federal government for the first time on a course of large-scale, sustained support and encouragement of the nation's cultural life.

Distinguished Americans are gathering for an arts symposium at the LBJ Library in Austin, Tex., to officially observe the 10th anniversary of the National Endowment for the Arts, sister agency of the National Endowment for the Humanities also created under the act, and to celebrate what nearly all observers hail as one of the most successful public-private partnerships in the nation's history

The National Endowment for the Arts "has been the confirmation of the idea that government support for the arts is a necessary and legitimate function" and "has demon-strated that the federal government can advance national cultural interests in a responsible (and undictatorial) manner," says Florence Lowe, assistant to the Endowment's chairman, Nancy Hanks.

From its inception the major goals of the Endowment have been "to make the arts more widely available to millions of Americans, to preserve our cultural heritage for present and future generations, to strengthen cultural organizations and to encourage the creative development of the nation's finest talent.'

This has been done primarily through a variety of programs of matching grants and assistance—to architects and urban planners, touring dance companies, communitybased arts organizations, professional symphony orchestras and opera companies- as well as fellowships for writers, playwrights and poets, to name only a few of the Endowment's activities.

Some of the Endowment's specific accomplishments over the last 10 years include:

-An Artists-in-Schools program now supporting over 2,000 professional artists working in 5,000 elementary and secondary schools in 50

-Community arts agencies have increased six-fold in number to a total of nearly 600;

-Resident professional dance companies have increased from 10 to 40 and the dance audience nationally has grown from one to 15 mil-organizations totaled 15 in 1965; the number is now 50. The degree of support the Nation-

-Resident professional theater

al Endowment for the Arts has won from successive administrations and Congresses, credited in large measure to the vigorous leadership of Nancy Hanks, is reflected in the fact that the Endowment's initial funding of only $2.5 million, or a little more than a penny for every American, had grown to $74 million in the last fiscal year.

Furthermore, in fiscal 1966, less than two dozen states collectively appropriated $2.7 million for the arts within their boundaries. Last year, all the states and territories devoted $59 million to the arts, demonstrating the "seeding" effect of Endowment activities—or a cultural chain reaction, as one writer puts it.

Combined federal and state funding for the arts thus now stands at about $133 million. Since the majority of grant recipients must match each grant with money from other sources, and since a conservative estimate is an average match of three to one, it is apparent that publicly supported culture has become a $400-million industry in America.

Even so, if Americans were providing the same proportionate support as Great Britain, with a population a quarter the size of ours and a gross national product one-twelfth as big, the annual budget for the arts would be on the order of $1.2 billion.

That's a goal the National Endowment for the Arts may want to shoot for in the next 10 years.

Not all welcome Bicentennial

By TOM TIEDE

CHEROKEE, N.C. (NEA)-Roadside signs throughout the mountain regions of this and neighboring states designate a rarely remembered and perhaps best forgotten chapter of the American Revolution: Battles in which native Indians teamed with British interests against the patriots.

If the colonies were founded somewhat on the basis of peaceful coexistence with the redmen, the Revolution was the beginning of a split lasting to this day.

Indian participation in the war was not of course confined to this area, known in the 1700s as the Southwestern frontier of the new land. Most of the Six Nation tribes of the Northeast also allied themselves with the British and fought the revolutionaries from the Catskills to Lake Erie. But it was here in the Appalachian region where the savagery between the forces was particularly intense, with the legacy of all sides being largely wretched.

Popular history has it that the British bribed Indian activity with booze and bamboozling, and some of that is probably true. But in the main the Indians needed no goading. The Cherokee, Creek, Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes of the day claimed land that stretched from Ohio to Mississippi, Virginia to the Florida line, and they were disinclined to allow colonialist encroachment. Besides, what treaties the redmen had with the whites bore the seal of King George and tribal fathers desperately wanted them preserved.

Patriots of the time felt the British utilization of the Indians unfair and outside the bounds of what was then perceived as acceptable tactics. Not lightly did Tom Jefferson indict the British king, in the Declaration of Independence, for bringing "the Inhabitants of our Frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known Rule of Warfare is an undistinguished Destruction of all Ages, Sexes and Conditions."

The Patriots' disgust was perhaps better expressed by a soldier in the command of Gen. John Sullivan, who, upon seeing the results of Indi-

O Britain, behold, and blush!"

Actually, some in Britain did blush, and called for an end to the Indian alliance. Hardliners won out, though, agreeing with the influential Earl of Suffolk that: "It is allowable, and perfectly justifiable, to use every means which God has put in our hands.'

Thus Indian raiding continued in the area, led by a Cherokee Patton named Dragging Canoe, to the 1780s. and to the eventual destruction of what had been for centuries an Indian nation and what for even longer than that had been an Indian way of

And it was this total destruction that blighted the Patriots' part in all this. Already shamed for wrongs done to the redmen- the patriots (with the British) introduced at least two devices that weakened the Indians physically and morally: smallpox and scalping. The colonialists set out in the Revolution to not only solve, but annihilate, the Indian question.

To this end hundreds of Indian villages were wiped out, croplands were burned, and families split and scattered. Carl Lambert, a Cherokee historian, says now that eventual poverty and starvation killed more Indians than patriot muskets. That's war, of course. Or is it? Americans who have been normally benevolent, even excessively generous to defeated enemies, have not in 200 years looked on the Indians with the same reconstruction charity that they have, say, on the Japanese and the Germans. And so it is that the Cherokees, to name just one former enemy tribe, has to the present continued to suffer that defeat of two centuries past.

In 1776, according to historian Lambert, the Cherokee Nation consisted of 20,000 people in control of 235,000 square miles of America. Today there are 8,000 survivors on this reservation of 56,000 acres. Bicentennial? Lambert says his people are preparing to observe the com-memoration, "but we won't exactly celebrate it.'

NIU TV series to additional stations

DeKALB— Television viewers in Peoria and the Quad Cities this fall will be able to join those in the Rockford - Feeport - DeKalb area for the monthly half-hour Northern Illinois University series, "A Northern View."

The series began last January on Rockford's WREX-TV, but now expands in scope to interest a larger number of viewers in the three areas, says Bob Pederson, producer and director of the show.

WREX-TV, which will continue to provide the studio, production and videotape facilities, aired the first program in the fall series at 12:30 p.m. last Saturday, according to Jack James, Channel 13 production manager.

WRAU-TV in Peoria, debuts the series this week, at 12:30 p.m. on Saturday, according to Channel 19's Robert E. Rice, executive vice president and general manager, and Robert Moss, promotion manager.

WQAD-TV in Moline, begins the series on a regular basis this fall, though some Quad Cities viewers got a preview this summer with the showing of one program from the initial series, according to Channel 8 program director Ron Klayman and public service director Lloyd Balkcom.

Pederson said the show this fall will emphasize a single theme each time rather than unrelated "mini-documentaries," with the first show devoted to "Education—Past, Present and Alternative." The past part should be of particular interest as viewers visit a "typical" classroom for Illinois grade school children in the early 1900s, he said.

Other themes scheduled for future shows include one on winter month recreational opportunities in Illinois, a Bicentennial show, one program devoted to consumerism and a musical show, Pederson said.

Sheri Reeser, a 22-year-old junior majoring in home economics at Northern, is co-host for the first show in the new series, joining Dr. Phil Gray an NIU speech faculty member who has been with the series since its start.

A native of New Lenox, near Joliet, she has been music director and an announcer at NIU's student radio station, WKDI, and for the past year and a half has appeared on the noon news report broadcast from campus each day on an area commercial cable TV system.

EARLY ILLINOIS CLASSROOM . . . Grade school teacher Susan Donohoo conducts a "typical" Victorian-era classroom at the one-room North Grove School near Sycamore, on "A Northern View," the monthly half-hour television series produced by Northern Illinois University.

New sci-fi saga beams in Hollywood (NEA)— Ever since Star Trek beamed away into oblivion, there has been no place for TV science-fiction fans to go. They have had to satisfy themselves with an occasional movie, otherwise it's been a time for merely reminiscing about what used to be.

But now, there may be hope on the space horizon. A new series called Space 1999 is zapping our way, and it seems to be the stuff for old Star Trekkers. There's a lot of Star Trek in it, as well as a touch of Lost In Space and some other sci-fi attempts.

Space 1999 is not a network entry for the new season, but it will be syndicated and the sales are going well. They expect a lineup of 150 stations, which is more than some networks can deliver. In all but four of those cities (the four are Los Angeles, New York, Chicago and Cleveland) the show will be aired in prime time on a network outlet. Thus, it will be pre-empting a network show in around 145 or Space 1999 is an Englishmade series. It co-stars two Americans, however-Barbara Bain and Martin Landau, the husband-and-wife team who were once part of the Mission: Impossible unit.

The story involves an advance base on the Moon in 1999. There are some 300 people working there. Then, one Moony day, there is a nuclear accident and the whole baseit's called Moonbase Alpha-is inadvertently blasted off into

Is there a romance between the man in charge and the chief medical officer?

"Why not?" shrugs Barbara

The Landaus say they were amazed at some things about shooting a TV series in England. The most amazing was the cost. The production team didn't spare the farthings on this one. It took them 20 months to make 24 episodes.

"It could never have been made here," Landau says. "Each episode cost around $275,000. We shot 11 days for each show, then there was the post-production to add the special effects."

He estimates that thr $275,000 would equal about $400,000 here. And the average American-made hour show comes in for somewhere around $250,000.

Some of the things that helped bring up the cost:

The tea break and the 5:20 quitting time helped make the entire experience a very pleasant one for the Landaus.

For the more than a year and a half they were there, they had their two children (Suzy, 13 at the time, and Julie, 8) with them. They rented a home on a canal and it was a good life for all concerned.

The two girls attended an American school in London but, even so, came home with a few Britishisms.

And the Landaus may be going back. It is still too early to tell just how successful Space 1999 will be, of course, but if it's a hit they will be faced with a big decision.

HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT YOURSELF?
"YOUR NAILS WILL TELL"

Heredity may decide who has a fine profile or a beautiful face, but any woman can have more beautiful nails. That is why a woman's nails are so revealing. They provide an instant insight into how she feels about her-

Nails, of course, are more than decorative. They provide a protective covering for finger tips and toes. They are strategically placed to take all kinds of rough treat-ment, yet the nail has a fragile chemical makeup like skin. And, like the skin, it requires continuous treatment to stay in beautiful

The nail is composed of three parts. The nail bed, matrix and nail plate. The soft tissue under the nail is the nail bed. It has small blood vessels through which nourishment is supplied to the matrix, the condition of the nail plate is determined by the matrix. The matrix is shaped like a figure 8 the visible part at the base of the nail is called the lunula or moon, the rest is underneath the skin at the base of the nail.

The nail plate is the hard surface which is composed of Keratin, a protein also important to hair and skin.

As the nail grows, this plate is constantly being pushed forward as it receives additions from below. The growth is about one-thirtysecond inch a week in a normal healthy nail.

If your nails are healthy they will be a natural pink, any blue tint implies poor circulation.

Base coat smooths ridged uneven nails, helps nails wear longer, lacquer prepares nails to receive truer, more even color.

TV crime blamed for uvenile extortion plot

DYERSBURG, Tenn. (AP) -A juvenile officer blames too much crime on television for an attempted $1 million extortion plot planned by a group of Dyersburg boys ranging in age from 10 to 14.

The youngsters have been charged with threatening to blow up a Sears Roebuck and Co. store in an attempt to extort $1 million in cash and about $100,000 in guns, trucks and farm equipment.

The nine have been released in the custody of their parents pending a juvenile court hearing. Their names were not released.

"It's not that we felt they could have pulled it off," Juvenile Officer Joey McDowell said Tuesday. "It's that 12-year-olds could think of it. It's television and nothing else.

McDowell said officers didn't know they were dealing with juveniles until the mother of one of the boys identified her son's handwriting on the extortion note.

McDowell said the plot was well-planned except for a miscalculation in the amount of postage on the two-pound extortion note and other details that did not become apparent until the nine were in custody.

Sheriff's deputies were called into the case Monday when Sears store officials received a parcel containing a handwritten note and more than 100 pages torn from the Sears' catalog.

The note threatened that the store would be blown up if the money and merchandise marked on the catalog pages were not delivered in three Peterbilt trucks. The note demanded rifles, ammunition, farm equipment and citizens band radios.

McDowell said the type of truck was specified because one of the boys was familiar with the vehicle. He said other members of the group were chosen by the 12-year-old leader for particular skills or knowledge.

Investigators took the package to the postoffice, and postal officials were able to trace its origin. Despite the package's weight, the boys used only a 10cent stamp when it was placed in the mailbox at the home of one of the plotters for the mailman to pick up.

"Everybody down at the postoffice remembered the package," he said. "It was sort of a joke because the postman who picked it up got chewed out for picking it up with so much postage due.'

Deputies went to the house where the package had been

McDowell said the mother of one of the boys recognized the handwriting. The other members of the group were quickly identified and picked up,

HELP FIGHT CANCER

... It Strikes At Any Age

Unfortunately, according to the American Cancer Society more than one million Americans, young and old, were under medical care for cancer last year. Although in the past the disease has generally been uncontrollable, today many types of cancer can be cured if detected early in their development and treated by surgery or radiation.

When the disease strikes, the resulting medical expenses could become terrific. Such expenses could be financially devastating to a family. Therefore, additional income is usually needed to pay for the more expensive types of treatment.

Rockford Life developed a Cancer Policy to provide broad coverage in those areas where actual claim experience indicates there is a need for such coverage. This policy pays in addition to any other insurance you may now have. Let me help you fight the expenses of cancer.

Washington needs additional heavy weapons, so the two men are sent with a dismantled cannon drawn by a mule across what is now the Knox Trail to open the way for 60 additional big guns that will follow if they get through.

On the tail, Amos and Tom (nicknamed Frostbite by the veteran) face bitter cold, broken equipment and armed Tories. When Amos dies, Frostbite must overcome many obstacles to complete the mission.

Insurance agents visit fire training center

The Blackhawk Fire training center, located at the western edge of Sterling on Ill. 2, was toured recently by the members of the Lee County Independent Insurance Agents' Association.

The training center, operated by the Blackhawk Fire Fighters Association, which represents 1,800 men in northwestern Illinois and eastern Iowa, including all fire departments in Lee County, serves as a training facility.

The large, metal building permits firemen to train in the use of ladders up to 40 feet in length within the enclosure, making training available in all kinds of weather. This facility is one of only a few of its kind.

Classrooms, instruction rooms, and storerooms for instruction materials are also housed within the structure. Using instructional equipment, such as over-head projectors, movies, film-strips, cassettes, transparencies, and a library, fire fighting and first-aid are taught to the members throughout the area.

One room contains a pump simulator panel, with radio controls, used to train pumper operators to be effective in fighting fires.

Through an affiliation with Sauk Valley

College, classes in fire-fighting are offerred there, too. Also, schools are conducted in various fire protection districts, using materials from the training center. Instructors from the training center and from fire departments head the schools.

The area outside the building has been laid out in plots 100-feet square around the perimeter of the land. These are called evolution spaces and will serve as stations for the future addition of devices and equipment for fighting fires. A burning tower is planned to be built in the near future. It will rise 50 feet and will be used to give firemen experience in fighting fires and burning buildings.

The fire departments belonging to the Blackhawk Fire Fighters Association save considerable expense by sharing these facilities and training equipment, which otherwise would be purchased by each department. They point out that not a dime of taxpayers' money has been used to purchase the land, the building, or the equipment. Dues and contributions purchased and support the facility

The Lee County Independent Insurance Agents learned that an open house, to which the public will be invited, is being planned for sometime in October.

Newest addition to the Dixon business community is the Hen's Nest, Palmyra Road, next to the White House. The store, which is owned and managed by Ms. Shirley Fane and Ms. Ann Brophy, opened for business on Sept. 17 and will have its grand opening on Friday, Oct. 3. It specializes in handmade midwestern arts and crafts on consignment and has a wide variety of paintings, dolls and doll clothing, macrame, wreaths and sand terrariums. (Telegraph Photo)

"FIRE!" One starts every 45 seconds

A fire breaks out in an American home every 45 seconds. Tragically, many families who have fires in their homes don't have adequate homeowners insurance.

Maybe their insurance was fine a few years back. But building costs have gone up more than 50 per cent in the last few years. So has the value of many homes.

Make sure your insurance covers your home and everything in it at today's higher prices.

Review your insurance with your Country Companies agent. There's a good chance he can save you some money with coverage from Country Mutual.

DEAR DICK: I am curious about Kate Smith, as I am a staunch fan of hers and always will be. Is she married or has she ever been married?—MRS. EMMA CHAVEZ, Pueblo, Colo.

Kate welcomes your staunchness. Performers need all the staunch fans they can get. Miss Smith is still a bachelor girl; she has never been married.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me where I could purchase a tape of the theme from S.W.A.T.? And could you tell me please if Mark Shera is really Italian, and is that his real name?—A READER, Noblesville, Ind.

The theme from S.W.A.T. has not been recorded, so purchasing it will be tough. As for Mark Shera, that's his real name and he's not Italian, he's Jewish.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me what became of Buford Pusser's children? How old are they now? I mean his real children. Where are they living now?—C.A., Mobile, Ala.

The late, great lawman left two children. His wife had others by another marriage, but I assume you mean just Buford's. His son, Michael, is 20, married and off on his own somewhere. His daughter, Dwana, 14, is living in Adamsville, Tenn., with Buford's parents.

DEAR DICK: I want to become a fashion designer and go to college for it. But I have designed something for Cher. I don't know how to get it to her. Could you tell me how?—JANINE RANELIN, Steubenville, Ohio

Don't aim so high so fast. Cher has a platoon of professional designers, headed by Bob Mackie, who turn out her outfits. Design, rather, for yourself and your friends first. And, of course, fulfill your plan and go to college and then see what happens.

DEAR DICK: Whatever happened to Alberta Grant and Alan Feinstein, who played Liz and Jim Fields on Edge of Night? Are either or both of them expected to return to the series?—A FAN, St. Albans, Vt.

Both of them, according to CBS, left the show to pursue their own careers. Miss Grant is working in New York and Feinstein came to Hollywood. He did a pilot (Super Cops) which didn't sell. The characters they played were not killed off, so they may be brought back with other actors

DEAR DICK: A few years ago, there was a western on TV with Walter Brennan and Dack Rambo. It was about a boy searching for his father, an outlaw. Could you please tell me the name of the show?—GUY PRICE, Dixon, Ill.

That was The Guns of Will Sonnett.

DEAR DICK: Was there ever a movie called "The Diary of Anne Frank"? If so, who played Anne Frank and what year was the movie made?—IRITA TEW, Mobile, Ala.

Yes, there was a movie called "The Diary of Anne Frank" and it was a good one. Millie Perkins played Anne Frank in the '59 film.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me if the manwho plays Steve Austin on The Six Million Dollar Man is married and, if he is, who to?—KRISTIN MEYERS, Lethbridge, Alta., Can.

Yes, Lee Majors, who plays Austin, is married. His wife, model-actress Farrah Fawcett, now calls herself Farrah Fawcett-Majors. (If she had married Dr. Leakey, would she be Fawcett-Leakey?)

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me if Dennis James and Art James are related?—MISS M.J.C., Jersey Shore, Pa.

Yes, I could. And I will. They're not.

DEAR DICK: My husband says Cloris Leachman starred in Born Free. I say no. Please tell us who was the female star in that series.—JAYNE BELL, Silverhill, Ala.

female star in that series.—JAYNE BELL, Silverhill, Ala.
One lonesome victory for the wives. It wasn't Cloris, it was Diana Muldaur.

Annual picks by TV critic

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, gang, time for the biannual Fearless Forecast in which we predict which of the 26 regularly-scheduled new series on television will prosper or poop out.

As in past years, the Forecast is conducted without reference to tea leaves, or their equivalent, the Nielsen ratings. All of it is, as Quasimodo might say, just a hunch. Here then, the Forecast:

SATURDAY — Howard Cosell, the Mouth that Roared, got off to a tame start with his live variety show. But it has promise and will do at least a season. Not so "Matt Helm." "Doc" also will turn his head, cough and expire shortly.

SUNDAY — "Swiss Family Robinson" will again be ship-wrecked — or is landwrecked as the case may be — by January. "Family Holvak" will be similarly uprooted. "Bronk" may solve crimes, but he'll be gunned down by year's end. "Three for the Road," on the other hand, will pick up strength and wander about for at least a year.

MONDAY — "Barbary Coast" will soon leave San Francisco for the San Andreas Fault, but "Phyllis" might escape the Big Shake for a year. But only a year. "The Invisible Man," of course, hasn't a ghost of a chance.

TUESDAY — "Welcome Back, Kotter" is picking up script strength and will graduate to another season. "Joe and Sons" will last as long as Jerry Stiller is featured in it. "Switch" gets maybe a season, but "Beacon Hill," which started on the top, will be at the bottom by January, its characters more jumbled than now. "Joe Forrester," meanwhile, will pound the pavements into a second season.

WEDNESDAY — "When Things Were Rotten" will get Sherwood Forest defoliated, but it'll take a season. "Starsky and Hutch" — yechh. Half a season. "Kate McShane" will lose her final case by midyear at about the same time "Doctor's Hospital" is closed.

THURSDAY — "On the Rocks" will pound its way to a second term, making big jokes out of little ones. "The Montefuscos" will be out of pasta by January, while the liberation of "Fay" will continue for at least a year a year.

"Ellery Queen" also will last a year, but "Medical Story" will be DOA by mid-season, despite intensive efforts at scriptto-mouth resuscitation.

FRIDAY — "Mobile One," about a TV reporter, probably will get the Big Story — about its cancellation — from the January newspapers. "Big Eddie," about an ex-gambler, may last a year if CBS lets Sheldon Leonard associate more with the spirit of Damon Runyon. If not, we make book this show won't even place in the mid-season Futurity.

We end the Fearless Forecast with a reminder to stay tuned for the big show ... life is only the station break.

Lane, Freed discuss Kennedy slayings

test bullets were fired from the gun seized from Sirhan. All spectographic film relative to the ballistics investigation is listed as lost or destroyed by the Los Angeles Police, Freed states

"All accounts and testimony say Sirhan fired from a position directly in front of Senator Kennedy," Lane continues, "Yet the three shots that entered the senator's body, including the one which fatally penetrated his brain, entered the body from the right rear. The senator received no frontal wounds.'

Later studies by forensics experts proved beyond a doubt, Freed says, that some of the bullets recovered from the senator's body and other places at the scene came from guns other than Sirhan's.

That evidence is so overwhelming, he claims, that Joseph Bush, district attorney in Los Angeles, who has since died, told a Los Angeles Times reporter from his deathbed that he had at last decided the case should be reopened. It was this deathbed assertion which provided the spark for the current effort to reopen the probe.

"A TV producer working with the RFK campaign slipped in the blood spurting from the senator's body," Freed states. "He fell beside the senator and looked up to see a security guard identified as Thane Eugene Cesar pumping shots from his pistol into the sen-

Investigators say they checked out his story and that Cesar said he sold the gun before the assassinations, yet Freed contends it turned up in Arkansas with a sales slip to prove Cesar sold it after the killing.

Freed, expressed resentment that he felt the country was being given away to the Communists, minorities and coloreds.

A pair of crusaders for parallel causes—part 1

Freed makes no bones about the fact that Sirhan was "programmed" by someone to try to kill RFK. He was under hypnosis, the au-

"Highly qualified people at the scene, in-cluding four experienced newsmen, testified they saw a woman in a polka-dot dress embracing and murmuring to a trembling, glassy-eyed Sirhan moments before the assassination," he offers. "Those witnesses described this scene in detail. They said the woman ran from the scene screaming 'We killed him. We killed Kennedy'.

All reports and testimony about the woman in the polka-dot dress are missing from the evidence files, Freed contends.

It's about here in the scheme of things where Freed feels the coverup goes beyond the Los Angeles Police Department and gets into the area of CIA involvement.

Freed says an elite police unit called "Special Unit Senator" headed by four lieutenants was brought in to the investigation. Two members of that unit, Manuel Pena and Enrici Hernandez, both were fresh from teaching in Latin countries for the CIA, Freed states, and that the SUS unit was actually an arm of the CIA within the Los Angeles Police

"All of the witnesses who testified about the woman in the polka-dot dress," Freed continues, "were browbeaten, harassed, hounded and generally abused by the SUS. So much so that one younger girl suffered a nervous breakdown. Those who stuck to their stories were subjected to lie-detector tests, with Hernandez doing the testing.

"Ralph Houghton, head of the SUS unit, made the statement that 'Thanks to Hernandez, the stories of a woman in a polka-dot dress have been laid to rest.' Thus the SUS and the CIA had secured the one-lone-nut theory that Sirhan acted alone.'

The TV producer who saw Cesar fire the gun at Kennedy was similarly treated, Freed explains, and his story discounted. But he went to an independent polygrapher and his story held up under that testing.

Sirhan's trial was a mockery, Freed says A report written by the psychiatrist at San Quentin prison, where Sirhan is held, calls it

"the psyciatric blunder of the century."
At the trial, Sirhan was portrayed as a paranoid schizophrenic and psychotic. The San Quentin psychiatrist, Dr. Eduard Simson, who had far more time with Sirhan than any of the court medical men, says in the report that the facts brought out at the trial do not match, and indeed strongly conflict with his findings in the interviews with Sirhan. He says he found no evidence of paranoia, schizophrenia or anything psychotic about Sirhan.

The diaries reported as being written by Sirhan prior to the crime, and a major factor in the court case against Sirhan, do not match his own handwriting, Dr. Simson states. Either they were written by someone else or by Sirhan under some special influence, such as hypnosis, the prison doctor contends.

Sirhan, himself, doubts some of the writing is his," the report states.

Freed says no doubt exists that Sirhan was hypnotized at the time of the slaying. Dr. Simson describes him as highly susceptible to course of the interviews.

Freed says the hypnosis was accomplished with a little blue circle with a dot, "just the color and the pattern of the polka-dot dress worn by the mystery woman in the case. He goes into new experiments going on in Britain and in the Soviet Union on "programming" people as trained assassins. "Manchurian Candidates" as he refers to them. Getting into linking the JFK and RFK assassinations, Freed says a "programmed" assassin tried to kill President Marcos of the Philippines. During the course of his hospital treatment by a Filipino doctor named Arcega, he revealed he was "programmed" and at the scene of the JFK assassination in

Upon reporting this, Freed says, Arcega was removed from the case and an American doctor brought in to finish the deprogram-

Dr. Arcega later came to the U.S., Freed alleges. He was working as a teacher at a college in the Los Angeles area. Within hours of the RFK shooting, "the senator was not yet dead," two FBI agents showed up at Arcega's home and questioned him under the guise they thought Sirhan might be of Filipino nationality.

Freed wants to see the evidence that remains seized from the Los Angeles Police. He wants to see the case reopened and put into the hands of a special prosecutor.

(Part two on Monday will go into Lane's contentions on a coverup in the JFK assassination and how these two handle criticism that they are profiting from their dissent in the assassinations.)

charged SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) -The Illinois Auditor General says a specal audit shows "extensive maneuvering of appropriations" by the Department of Transportation" in the two years ended June 30, 1974. "In total, it appears that the Department of Transportation diverted a substantial amount from its administrative appropriation to uses other than those intended by the General Assembly," Auditor General

Robert Cronson said Tuesday. These transactions not only raise the questions of propriety, and perhaps legality, but also suggest that the Department's appropriaion was considerably

One example given to support the auditors' claim of maneuvering money from one area to another was that some 42 employes paid collectively at a rate of $56,250 a month were carried on the DOT payroll although they performed work unrelated to public trans-

Of the the 42 so-called "mystery employes," 19 were on the payroll of the highway safety division of the DOT and 14 were paid by the maintenance division, the audit said. The auditors noted that as of Feb. 1, 1975 approximately half the employes had resigned their positions. "There was no documentation in their personnel files indicating why the individuals resigned or if they had taken a position with another state agency," Cronson said.

The auditors said they had learned of the existence of the mystery payrollers—labeled as such because of reports that their job activities were a mystery to the DOT superiors they were supposed to be working for-through newspaper accounts developed with assistance from the Better Government Association, a citizens' watchdog group. Once Lower and the boy reached the deserted camp, the statement continued, Lower forced Didier to participate in sexual acts before the killing. Earlier, Rockford Detective Jess Ottwell testified that the defendant told him after he was arrested that he stood the boy on a chair and placed a noose around his neck in a cabin at the camp.

Ottwell gave this account of Lower's signed confession:

As the youngster pleaded for his life, Lower threw the noose over a rafter and tied another rope to the chair. Then he walked out the door and jerked on the rope.

Kelley said he will attempt to prove that Lower has a background of child molesting, including assaults on a Sparks, Nev., youth and an 11-year-old Freeport boy in 1968. He said Lower also has admitted molesting two other Rockford newspaper boys in the last two

The four holes on the head are actually suction cups used by the parasite to attach itself to the inside of a human intestine. It has no mouth. Food is absorbed by the parasite's body from its host's intestine. The parasite enters a human body when a person eats food that contains its eggs. Proper cooking of meat and fish kills the larvae. A person infected by the parasite may suffer weight loss and stomach upset.

Ring lost in 1940 found in sewer

WINNETKA, Ill. (AP) — A two-carat diamond ring lost by Gilbert P. Bogert in 1940 has turned up 35 years later, found by two Winnetka public service workers cleaning out a street

The sewer cleaners took the ring Wednesday to William Crosby, a jeweler who noticed the engraving: "GPB to DDL, April 1919."

'The jeweler said he used to know a fellow with those initials," said Winnetka Police Capt. Arthur Braun. "He said the wife had died in the mid-'40s and that the husband was now living in Wilmette."

"Sure enough, we talked to Gilbert P. Bogert yesterday and he told us enough that we're convinced it's his ring,' said Braun.

The ring was found in a sewer on the same street where the Bogerts lived for 10 years in the 1940s, Braun said. Bogert had given it to his fiance, Deliah Dale Lindsay, in April 1919 and the couple was married in November of the same year.

"It's one of the damnedest things in 43 years in the jew elry business that I have ever run across," Crosby said.

"When I saw the engraving, the initials hit me as those of a delightful old gentleman who had flown Caproni bombers in the Italian Air Force with Fiorello LaGuardia, the ex-mayor of New York," the jeweler said. LaGuardia quit Congress in 1916 to join the then-U.S. Air Service and attended an Italian flying academy.

Green Wing Bible Camp is all-year facility

GOLDEN OAK LODGE

By FRANCES MacKINNON

AMBOY-Over 600 young people from northern Illinois attended the various activities at Green Wing Bible Camp during the two-month summer camp period. They were taught nature lore, camping skills and the importance of living together in love.

In addition to the regular camp periods, which began in mid June and ended in August, the camp sponsored two back-packing trips to the Porcupine Mountains in Michigan, three canoe trips based at Shelbyville, a canoe trip to the Current River in Missouri, two bike hikes and bicycle tours to Bethel Horizons, Wis., and to northern Iowa.

The Rev. Arlen Holmen, director of the camp, and his staff formed a singing group which is available for worship services. They conducted several outdoor services at Woodhaven Lakes this summer and participated in the Amboy Bicentennial ecumenical worship service in July.

Throughout the summer the camp staff was aided by volunteers who came in to assist for a week or often for several weeks.

However, Green Wing's programs do not close with the end of summer months, there will be retreat groups all winter, meetings, Sunday School picnics, outings for the elderly, tobogganing and other winter sports.

One of the biggest projects of the year will be the fifth annual "Walk for Development" which will be held Oct. 11 and Oct. 18. Anyone who wishes to help the growth of Green Wing Camp is invited to participate in a 20-mile hike and to solicit sponsors to pay for their miles of hiking to benefit the camp. There will be prizes for the top money-makers, and each hiker will earn a badge which

Mrs. Betty Hiatt, secretary at the camp, has prepared the following background information on the Green Wing Camp, which was established seven years ago.

Green Wing Bible Camp, located 31/2 miles southeast Amboy, is sponsored by the American Lutheran Church, Illinois District. It came into existence in Nov.

Four pastors serving congregations in the Northwest Conference ALC had spent many months searching for a piece of property which would be suitable for a Bible They found 490 acres of timber and marsh land formerly used as a private hunting club called Green Wing Farm. With a great deal of courage and faith, the four pastors borrowed enough money on their own signatures to purchase an option. Ninety days later (with 15 minutes left of the option time), they had managed to procure the down payment with the help of a few business men and farmers who lent their signatures to the neces-

The hunting lodge used by the former owners was remodeled to make it suitable for retreat camping. Many items of equipment were acquired either by donation or purchase. Jim Splitt, a seminary student, lived at Green

Wing that first summer with his wife in a rented mobile home. The Rev. Paul Wittenberg came to Green Wing as the first Executive Director in July 1969. He and his wife lived in a small mobile home which now serves as the camp office. Much of that summer was spent in clearing the area which is now used as the tent and trailer campground. The Rev. Mr. Wittenberg left in February to return to the parish ministry. The Rev. Mr. Holmen was called from St. Mark Lutheran Church in Mt. Prospect to become the second and present executive director; he began his service in April 1971.

The Holmens live on the grounds and all are involved in the activities at Green Wing, as well as being a part of the community. Mrs. Holmen (Myrne), has always time in her busy day to be a gracious hostess. Daughters Sherri and Julie have served in several capacities on the summer staff; Sherri is a freshman this fall at Illinois State University at Normal, while Julie attends Amboy High School. The couple's son, Mark, goes to Amboy Central School. Three dogs and a number of cats complete the family roster. Karl Steder is camp manager.

A second lodge was begun in November, 1971, and work was continued on it through 1972. In December, 1972, it was opened to the forst retreat group. This is Golden Oak Lodge. The original lodge is called White Pine; it is adjacent to a beautiful pine grove which has been the setting for the two weddings that have been performed at Green Wing. Golden Oak boasts a completely modern kitchen; a circular fireplace set in the middle of the main room; two dormitory rooms housing 51 persons; bathrooms with showers; heating for the winter.

The woods are home for wildlife that can be glimpsed from the miles of hiking trails or from your car or bike on the roads that wind through the forest. There are raccoons, minks, muskrats, beavers and their dam, frogs, fox, owls and many other kinds of birds, including migratory birds on their routes to and from their summer

The camp also has a family tent and trailer campground and areas that are suitable for more primitive camping. Summer campers have many recreational options, including softball, basketball, archery, badminton, bike riding, swimming, and others. Winter campers can

Mrs. Hiatt concluded by saying "Green Wing is a place where creation is in the process of happening. It is a rest haven for both man and creature. Nestled under the vaulted dome of God's sky it beckons people to leave their worries behind and come to be refreshed in the quiet beauty of the Creator's earth. As one old farmer has put it, 'it sure ain't good for growing corn but is a good place for growing people.' Green Wing began with a vision. It had a courageous beginning. It has seen growth both in facilities and in numbers of people who come. It is no longer a vision. It lives in the present and is eagerly looking to the fu-

DISCOVER A NEW WORLD OF THE SPIRIT THROUGH FAITH

Like Christopher Columbus, each of us must embark upon the perilous voyage of life, fraught with uncertainty of direction or purpose; sometimes tossed by storms, often becalmed to a standstill. But, like the adventurer of old. we can be guided to the attainment of a goal far superior in benefit to ourselves and others than the mistaken one for which we had originally set sail; if faith be the rudder that keeps our ship of life on its true course despite wind and wave. Let your Church be the port of embarkation for your own voyage to the joyful discovery of a new way of life through faith.

"The Lord on high is mightier than the noise of many waters, yea, than the mighty waves of the sea." - Psalms 93:4

A high price might keep you from buying a new home.

But a low price shouldn't.

A Wausau Home costs thousands of dollars less than comparable homes. Because of the way we buy materials and the efficiency of our controlled building system.

For example, every Wausau Home is built with the finest grade kiln-dried lumber. 100% copper plumbing. Real ceramic tile walls and floors

We buy the very best and we buy in quantity. Which lowers the price, not the quality. And we build under the very best conditions, indoors, out of the weather.

Stop by for a close look at a Wausau Home. But don't let our low prices scare you. That shouldn't keep you from buying the new home you want.

Welcome Home.
